Editorial Notes.

CUSTOM demands from the Editor of the Hospital JOURNAL a word of welcome to Freshmen. This is a duty which we willingly perform, since it implies an assumption of nothing more than relative seniority. To the gentlemen who have now associated themselves once and for all with the ancient foundation of St. Bartholomew, we offer the heartiest of welcomes. This we offer on behalf of the Hospital, of the Medical School, and of the Students' Union, which we have the honour to represent. Every Bart.'s man regards himself as a life member of the institution; directly he enters his name as a student he undertakes from that time onward a heavy responsibility towards the place. The fees he pays and the services he performs in the wards are a small return for all that he gets out of the Medical School and the Hospital; no wonder something more is demanded of him.

* * *

THERE are some men whose one object in joining any institution is to get the most out of it with the least possible inconvenience to themselves. This is a very unfortunate attitude for anyone to adopt who hopes to succeed at St. Bartholomew's. The tradition of the place is dead against it. If he manages to hide his true motives during the first few years, he will certainly be found out and shown up as soon as he begins clinical work. We only mention this point, because out of so many Freshmen there are certain to be some who, consciously or unconsciously, openly or in secret, hold this mistaken view of life, and we wish to warn them for their own benefit and for the good of the place.

* * *

AS for the others, the great majority, the men who mean to do their best for the Hospital, in welcoming them among us we also offer them our congratulations on their choice of a School. "Patient merit" does very well at Bart.'s. It may not be recognised at first, but it never fails of appreciation in the long run. The man who gives
