Programme Outline

The PG Diploma in International Dispute Resolution provides an understanding of the theoretical, practical and ethical problems relating to international dispute resolution. It also provides a stepping stone for professionals becoming more involved in international alternative dispute resolution (ADR) processes. All taught modules are taught as part of the LLM degree. On this diploma there are core modules which you must take in order to qualify. There are two distinct diploma routes to choose from, Arbitration (PDPF-QMCCL2) or Mediation (PDPF-QMCCL2), each with their own specialised focus.

Aims of the Programme

Aims of the programme:

- To assist students to develop a detailed, critical and advanced knowledge of key areas of International Dispute Resolution practice & regulation, not typically covered (or not adequately covered) by an undergraduate syllabus.
- To respond to the needs of students who wish to enter into practice in this specialist area – the modules will assist students to acquire essential theoretical and practical skills in their subjects; this relates to students who are located locally, regionally and internationally.

- To provide students with first-class and comprehensive teaching materials.
- To provide students with an in-depth understanding of key issues in these advanced law subjects.
- To broaden and deepen students' understanding of their own systems of law by giving them the opportunity and the tools with which to explore the international and comparative law context.
- To enhance the students' learning experience through regular interaction with module teachers, practitioners, visiting academics and fellow students.
- To ensure a balance of theoretical rigour and practical application and relevance in the examination of the law.

What Are the Entry Requirements?

An upper second class (2.1) honours degree in law (or with law as a major element) at a British University. Equivalent professional qualifications and experience will also be considered, e.g. degree with substantial law content, normally of at least Upper Second Class Honours (or equivalent). The following also qualify for entry to the Postgraduate Diploma: a non-law graduate with good Honours who has obtained the equivalent of First Class or Second Class Honours in CPE and Bar Finals/Legal Practice examinations, or passed the solicitors' qualifying examination. In exceptional cases persons not meeting the normal entry requirement may be considered if they have sufficient relevant experience. Evidence of English language proficiency will also be required. In order to judge the ability of applicants, emphasis is placed on references. Applicants are also required to provide a transcript of their marks from their former college or university.

How Do We Listen and Act on Your Feedback?

Throughout the programme, students will have the opportunity to raise academic concerns with the relevant module leaders and lecturers. All academic staff have office hours during which students may visit, or otherwise an appointment may be arranged. Emphasis will also be placed upon the use of email and QMPlus as communication platforms. Further, Postgraduate Diploma students are to be assigned a personal tutor from within the School of Law (CLS) academic staff as a first port of call in the event of any problem which may impinge upon their academic career at QMUL.

The views of students on the programme, including both content and delivery, will be sought at regular intervals, and the responses used in order to evaluate the Postgraduate Diploma with a view to year on year improvement in order to better meet the needs of our student clientele.

As Postgraduate Diploma students will follow common classes with those taking the LLM, these processes will be carried out as part of a common QA strategy with the LLM.

Academic Support

You will have access to the following academic support mechanisms:

- All academic staff have office hours during which students may visit, or otherwise an appointment may be arranged.
- An individual dissertation supervisor (if dissertation is selected)

Further, Postgraduate Diploma students are to be assigned a personal tutor from within the School of Law (CCLS) academic staff as a first port of call in the event of any problem which may impinge upon their academic career at QMUL.

Programme-specific Rules and Facts

The Programme will be governed by QM general academic regulations. Special regulations will be requested where necessary.

Specific Support for Disabled Students

Queen Mary has a central Disability and Dyslexia Service (DDS) that offers support for all students with disabilities, specific learning difficulties and mental health issues. The DDS supports all Queen Mary students: full-time, part-time, undergraduate, postgraduate, UK and international at all campuses and all sites.

Students can access advice, guidance and support in the following areas:

- Finding out if you have a specific learning difficulty like dyslexia
- Applying for funding through the Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA)
- Arranging DSA assessments of need
- Special arrangements in examinations
- Accessing loaned equipment (e.g. digital recorders)
- Specialist one-to-one "study skills" tuition
- Ensuring access to course materials in alternative formats (e.g. Braille)
- Providing educational support workers (e.g. note-takers, readers, library assistants)
- Mentoring support for students with mental health issues and conditions on the autistic spectrum.

Links With Employers, Placement Opportunities and Transferable Skills

LLM modules (which are taken by PG Diploma students) offered on the PG Diploma in International Dispute Resolution are accredited by the Solicitors Regulation Authority and Bar Standards Board and confer CPD points.

The courses organised by the School of International Arbitration include guest lectures by practitioners as well occasional visits to law firms and interaction with leading international practitioners. Such events include an annual symposium with the International Chamber of Commerce, an annual public lecture hosted by Freshfields and other occasional seminars.

Students who pass the Postgraduate Diploma examinations are fully exempt from the academic requirements for Fellowship of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators.
