Programme outline

Our BA joint honours programme in Film Studies and Drama is an exciting opportunity to study the dramatisation of our world across live and recorded media, and examines interrelated concepts such as production, mise-en-scène and spectatorship. You will be introduced to theories of performance and representation, and to key critical practices of twentieth and twenty-first-century theatre, performance and film. You'll develop critical skills, which will give you a crucial insight into fundamental aspects of theatre, performance and film, as well as creative skills in theatre and performance making and scriptwriting, for example. You'll also develop your communication and research skills, and skills in working collaboratively. Our staff – leading academics, practitioners and arts professionals – will work with you to make learning challenging and engaging, and encourage you to develop as a theatre and film critic and informed theatre and performance maker.

Aims of the programme

The programme aims to:

1. Provide a coherent, innovative and intellectually challenging programme which promotes the study of film and drama to a broad constituency of well-qualified students.
2. Offer knowledge and understanding of the history, practice and theory of drama and film studies, of theatre and cinema as institutions and cultural practice and of performance and mise-en-scène as forms of communication, expression and socio-political intervention.
3. Foster an understanding of the historical, aesthetic and intellectual contexts for the development of different forms of filmic and performance texts, practices and critiques.
4. Foster critical reflection on issues of diversity and difference that emerge from the study of and engagement with a range of forms, cultures and values.
5. Encourage participation in a culture of laboratory research, enabling you to use performance as a means for articulating ideas, and to undertake independent research tasks, including practice-based research.
6. Enhance literacy and creativity and develop skills in theatrical, dramatic and performance analysis, as well as oral and physical expression for the communication of ideas and argument.
7. Give access to a range of material and media that is worthy of study either as a product of the specific national culture concerned or in a broader cultural and intellectual perspective, or both.
8. Provide an opportunity to develop skills in interpretation, analysis, synthesis, critical appreciation, argumentation, communication, and study.
9. Enable the development of independent critical thinking and judgment and to undertake independent research tasks.
10. Develop a range of skills necessary to the effective communication of ideas and arguments.
11. Develop a range of subject-specific and transferable skills appropriate to a wide range of subsequent careers; in particular, to develop graduates' capacity for further learning; to prepare you for further study or research; to equip graduates to meet international, national, regional or local needs.

What will you be expected to achieve?

On completion of this programme you should be able to (see list of Learning Outcomes below):

QMUL Model

The QMUL Model is an innovative teaching and learning initiative that will broaden opportunities for Queen Mary undergraduates within and beyond higher education, supporting them to plan and manage their ongoing professional development. The Model is firmly grounded in the core QMUL values of respect for, and engagement with, the local area and communities, with a distinctive focus on enabling students to make a positive societal impact through leadership in their chosen field. The Model is organised around the key themes of:

- networking
- multi- and inter-disciplinarity
- international perspectives
- enterprising perspectives.

Students are required to study QMUL Model modules to the value of at least 10 credits at each year of undergraduate study. Model modules may be 5, 10 or 15 credits. Model modules are indicated within this programme specification.

In your first year of study, the Model module will be core or compulsory and will be situated within your home School or Institute. In subsequent years, students will be strongly encouraged to study at least one Model module beyond their home discipline(s), which could, for example, be in another School / Institute or area of QMUL or undertaken as a module outside of QMUL.

If Model module information is not provided on this programme specification for all subsequent years of study, this will be identified as your studies continue.

Where a Model module elective can be selected from an approved group of Model modules, no guarantee can be provided that your first choice of Model module will be available.

How will you learn?

The programme is taught in accordance with the Teaching and Learning Strategy of the Schools of English and Drama, and of Languages, Linguistics and Film. These strategies aim to:

- Foster a sense of community amongst students and staff in the pursuit of teaching and learning;
- Promote the relationship between staff research, teaching and student learning;
- Expose you to a diverse set of approaches to the study of your subject area;
- Encourage you to take responsibility for your own learning and progress and to develop qualities of self-discipline and self-direction;
- Inspire intellectual independence;
- Employ a variety of assessment methods;
- Prepare graduates for training and/or employment, or further academic study through the acquisition of transferable skills.

Teaching takes a number of forms, including:

- *workshops, including physical techniques, use of technologies and materials;
- *seminars, involving a variety of forms of group work;
- *small group tutorials;
- *lectures;
- *screenings;
- *writing retreats;
- *field trips, performance and gallery visits;

*presentations by and discussions with visiting artists and writers;
*individual guidance and feedback on work;
*individual supervision of projects and dissertations;
*group discussion of written and practical work;
*writing intensive modules.

How will you be assessed?

Assessment takes a number of forms within the programme. The nature of the assessment is closely connected to the desired learning outcomes and the mode of teaching within each module. Non-assessed tasks (e.g. presentations, written submissions) may also be used.

Forms of assessment in Film: Assessment will typically be via a combination of examination and coursework, or coursework portfolio. This will vary according to the content of the module. Examination may take the form of essays or sequence analysis exercises. Coursework may consist of essays, research projects, textual commentaries, critical reviews, film scripts.

Forms of assessment in Drama include:

essays;
written exercises (e.g. reviews, programme notes, feature articles, keyword definitions, site analyses, design analyses, pilot pieces, encyclopedia entries, blog posts, director's notes, funding applications);
presentations (group and individual);
portfolios (written and e-portfolios);
performance projects (group and individual);
proposals (for essays and performance projects);
multi-media (e.g. podcasts, annotated videos, websites);
dissertation

How is the programme structured?

Please specify the full time and part time programme diets (if applicable). Please also outline the QMUL Model arrangements for each year of study. The description should be sufficiently detailed to fully define the structure of the diet.

Take 120 credits in each year.

Year 1 (all compulsory):

What are the entry requirements?

The entry requirements are as stated in the Queen Mary prospectus for current entry, and on the Queen Mary website <http://www.qmul.ac.uk/undergraduate/coursefinder/index.html>

How will the quality of the programme be managed and enhanced?

Each School operates a Teaching and Learning Committee, which considers and advises on all matters relating to the delivery of taught programmes at school level including monitoring the application of relevant QM policies and reviewing all proposals for module and programme approval and amendment before submission to Taught Programmes Board. Student views are incorporated in this Committee's work in a number of ways, such as through consideration of student surveys.

Each School operates a programme review of its taught undergraduate and postgraduate provision. This review feeds into each School's Annual Programme Review for undergraduate programmes and for postgraduate taught programmes using the Annual Programme Review pro-forma. Students' views are considered in this process through analysis of National Student Survey results and module evaluations, and consideration of Staff-Student Liaison Committee minutes. Student representatives (selected across all the School's taught programmes) are also invited to attend the Annual Programme Review meeting, and the APR document is shared with the SSLCs.

How do we listen to and act on your feedback?

The Student-Staff Liaison Committee provides a formal means of communication and discussion between Schools and its students. The Committee consists of student representatives from each year in the School together with appropriate representation from staff within the School. It is designed to respond to the needs of students, as well as act as a forum for discussing programme and module developments. Student-Staff Liaison Committees meet regularly throughout the year.

Students are given the opportunity to provide feedback through the Module Evaluation system, and through QMUL and national surveys.

SED also hosts a dedicated page on its online learning environment, designed to highlight the profiles of student representatives, bring together information about student representations and feedback on surveys etc., and forums for updates and consultations.

What academic support is available?

All students beginning study on the programme participate in a series of Welcome Week activities, which involve introductions to the programme and specific inductions in the use of the online learning environment. These events also include opportunities for social interaction, and scheduled small group and individual meetings with personal advisers.

Each student's academic progress and personal welfare is monitored by an adviser in each Department. Advisers are the designated members of staff with whom students can raise issues and problems, and from whom they can seek advice and guidance.

All teaching staff hold regular drop-in hours in which students are actively encouraged to discuss their work and progress.

There is a dedicated Student Support Administrator in both Schools, who works with academic staff to assist students in need of support.

Both the Student Support Administrators and all advisers are able to refer students, where appropriate to relevant professional service departments in QMUL including Disability and Dyslexia, Welfare, and Counselling.

A dedicated post of E-Strategy Manager supports students in the use of the online learning environments used on all modules.

Each School provides advice on referencing and writing support.

The School of English and Drama and the School of Language, Linguistics and Film collaborate with QMUL's Thinking Writing team and Language Learning Unit to support students in the development of their writing skills. Additional support is regularly provided by professional writers working as Royal Literary Fund Fellows.

Programme-specific rules and facts

Specific support for disabled students

QMUL has a central Disability and Dyslexia Service (DDS) that offers support for all students with disabilities, specific learning difficulties and mental health issues. The DDS supports all QMUL students: full-time, part-time, undergraduate, postgraduate, UK and international at all campuses and all sites.

Students can access advice, guidance and support in the following areas:

- Finding out if you have a specific learning difficulty like dyslexia
- Applying for funding through the Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA)
- Arranging DSA assessments of need
- Special arrangements in examinations
- Accessing loaned equipment (e.g. digital recorders)
- Specialist one-to-one "study skills" tuition
- Ensuring access to course materials in alternative formats (e.g. Braille)
- Providing educational support workers (e.g. note-takers, readers, library assistants)
- Mentoring support for students with mental health issues and conditions on the autistic spectrum.

Links with employers, placement opportunities and transferable skills

A BA in Film and Drama encourages students to develop a life-long love for learning and equips you with a set of rigorous analytical, communication and performance skills, research skills and understanding of the modern world, negotiating and leadership skills that come with the experience of working in groups, and respect for the opinions of others and a willingness to act inclusively. This gives graduates some particularly sought-after qualities in the workplace. Whether you choose to go into the worlds of film, theatre or performance, business, media, or journalism, to enter the public or not-for-profit sectors, or to pursue further academic study or professional training.

Programme Title: BA (Hons) Film Studies and Drama

The programme capitalises on London's outstanding theatre and performance resources and, particularly, the Department's links with a variety of organisations including Artangel, Artsadmin, Barbican, Live Art Development Agency, London International Festival of Theatre, National Theatre, People's Palace Projects, Project Phakama, and Shakespeare's Globe. These links often bring artists, administrators, managers and other professionals into the programme as guest speakers, workshop leaders and performers. They also facilitate your participation in the cultural sector, and will form the basis for the further development of work-specific learning opportunities.

Students are notified of placement opportunities via our link with QProjects (part of QMUL's Careers Service).

Every year, the departments of Drama and Film see a number of students progress to take higher degrees, both at QMUL and elsewhere.
