Programme Outline

This is a unique programme of study delivered over three years of full residency in Paris, offering students a high level of exposure to French language and culture (understood in its broadest form to include literature, history, visual culture, cinema, linguistics and contemporary civilisation), as well as providing them with a grounding in various aspects of Politics and International Relations, including international relations theories and issues and the politics of the French-speaking world, including Africa and the Middle East.

The programme is designed to students with a grounding in all of these central issues (especially at levels 4 and 5), but at the same time provide sufficient flexibility to specialise in particular themes, topics and areas if they so wish (especially at level 6, but also to some degree at level 5). A research dissertation option is offered at Level 6.

The programme is designed to help students develop a strong sense of intellectual integrity, acquire substantial knowledge in the broad fields of French Studies and Politics and International Relations, and to apply these skills to wider situations.

Aims of the Programme

1. Develop students' advanced skills in understanding, speaking and writing French in a variety of registers;

2. Broaden and deepen students' knowledge of key aspects of France and of the francophone world during the post-revolutionary period;
3. Provide students with a coherent and intellectually stimulating programme which will compulsorily include theories of and issues in international relations and the politics of France and key strategic areas of the French-speaking world.
4. Introduce students to, and encourage them to employ, a range of methodological approaches and transferable skills including the ability to articulate ideas, devise and sustain arguments, assimilate and evaluate complex material, present (orally and in writing, in French and in English) the results of rational and critical thinking, and the ability to collaborate in group projects;
5. Introduce students to independent research, in relation to both the study of modern languages and international relations;
6. Prepare students for professional life by offering them a balanced understanding of and an ability to compare French and British cultures in both the general and political frameworks;
7. Provide a basis for further study in a range of disciplines cognate to those studied in the degree.

What Will You Be Expected to Achieve?

On completing the degree programme students will be expected to:

1. Write high quality essays in French and in English that draw on a range of research and develop a clearly articulated argument
2. Deliver oral presentations in French and in English that engage audiences with an argument and stimulate debate and discussions
3. Demonstrate an ability to critically engage with academic texts on a variety of topics, and retain and deploy information in an informative manner
4. Develop a sophisticated understanding of the study, theory and practice of topics relating to both the domains of French Studies and International Relations, and how the two disciplines inter-relate
5. Graduate attributes based on independent motivation and delivery of work; tolerance and understanding for alternative ideas; problem-solving; excellent bilingual oral and written skills; and the ability to work collectively with different people

C 3	establish a skills and learning agenda through negotiation, participation and communication in group discussions; exercise critical judgement and self-reflection on own learning, and use this to adapt to new situations in professional settings

How Will You Learn?

The programme is taught in accordance with the ULIP's Teaching and Learning Strategy and that of SPIR. Both bodies are committed to developing, maintaining and supporting good and innovative teaching practice, and to fostering independent learning and critical thinking in students, taking account of the overall framework set out in the College Teaching and Learning Strategy, and within this we consider the following areas to be of central strategic importance:

Teaching takes a number of forms:

- lecture
- seminars
- workshops
- guest speakers
- individual supervision of projects and dissertations
- individual feedback on written work (where requested)

Learning is supported by:

- Coherently designed and effectively delivered modules
- Detailed module outlines and week-by-week reading and activities on Moodle VLE
- The provision of key materials in libraries or through electronic resources
- Appropriate assessment exercises within each module
- Use of electronic teaching materials including Powerpoint, Moodle and online reading lists
- Encouraging active participation by students in seminar discussions
- Study skills methodology training

How Will You Be Assessed?

Assessment is varied and takes a number of forms within the programme. The nature of the assessment is closely connected to the desired learning outcomes and the mode of teaching within each module. Forms of assessment include:

- Unseen examinations
- Critical essays (from 1,500 to 3,000 words)
- Oral presentations (individual and group)
- Translation exercises (with or without annotations)

Programme Title: BA French Studies and International Relations

- Grammar tests
- Optional research dissertation in final year (6000-7000 words)

How is the Programme Structured?

Year 1 (Level 4)

How Do We Listen and Act on Your Feedback?

The Staff-Student Liaison Committee provides a formal means of communication and discussion between schools/institutes and its students. The committee consists of student representatives from each year in the school/institute together with appropriate representation from staff within the school/institute. It is designed to respond to the needs of students, as well as act as a forum for discussing programme and module developments. Staff-Student Liaison Committees meet regularly throughout the year.

Each school/institute operates a Learning and Teaching Committee, or equivalent, which advises the School/Institute Director of Taught Programmes on all matters relating to the delivery of taught programmes at school level including monitoring the application of relevant QM policies and reviewing all proposals for module and programme approval and amendment before submission to Taught Programmes Board. Student views are incorporated in the committee's work in a number of ways, such as through student membership, or consideration of student surveys.

All schools/institutes operate an Annual Programme Review of their taught undergraduate and postgraduate provision. APR is a continuous process of reflection and action planning which is owned by those responsible for programme delivery; the main document of reference for this process is the Taught Programmes Action Plan (TPAP) which is the summary of the school/institute's work throughout the year to monitor academic standards and to improve the student experience. Students' views are considered in this process through analysis of the NSS and module evaluations.

Academic Support

Academic support is provided by a personal tutor system, an active staff-student liaison committee, programme student representatives, and year group representatives. In addition the Director of French Studies (ULIP), Head of Student Services and Library Manager play an active role in student engagement and retention strategies that adapt and change to the needs of students.

The Staff-Student Liaison Committee is made up of two undergraduate representatives from each year (first, second and final) from ULIP plus one representative for the postgraduate taught masters' programmes. The Director of French Studies is an ex officio member. Staff representatives will include the joint QMUL-ULIP Chair in IR (or delegate), Head of Student Services and Library Manager. Matters pertinent to SPIR can be reported back to the SPIR SSLC as required.

The main forum for students to give feedback on their learning experience is via the SSLC and personal tutor system. In addition all students are invited to complete an evaluation questionnaire at the end of each module (as well as a short interim evaluation at the end of the first semester for modules valued at 30 credit points). These are considered by the module convenor and chair of LTC and issues raised are discussed at LTC and SSLC as appropriate.

Programme-specific Rules and Facts

Specific Support for Disabled Students

Queen Mary has a central Disability and Dyslexia Service (DDS) that offers support for all students with disabilities, specific learning difficulties and mental health issues. The DDS supports all Queen Mary students: full-time, part-time, undergraduate, postgraduate, UK and international at all campuses and all sites.

Students can access advice, guidance and support in the following areas:

- Finding out if you have a specific learning difficulty like dyslexia
- Applying for funding through the Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA)
- Arranging DSA assessments of need
- Special arrangements in examinations
- Accessing loaned equipment (e.g. digital recorders)
- Specialist one-to-one "study skills" tuition
- Ensuring access to course materials in alternative formats (e.g. Braille)
- Providing educational support workers (e.g. note-takers, readers, library assistants)
- Mentoring support for students with mental health issues and conditions on the autistic spectrum.

Links With Employers, Placement Opportunities and Transferable Skills

The BA French Studies and International Relations programme is not connected to a particular employment path and neither ULIP nor the School has links with a particular set of potential employers. However the subject specific and generic skills that are generated by the programme's learning outcomes prepare students for a wide range of international employment opportunities. Through the provision of high level French language skills and knowledge / understanding of French society as well as a coherent overview of the discipline of international relations with specific reference to the francophone world, students are prepared for politics-related careers such as the civil service, journalism, political research, social work, local government and working for a non-governmental organisation. More broadly, the emphasis on written and oral communication in French and English in the degree, along with the critical and analytical approaches to problem-solving, equip students for a wide variety of careers, including finance and banking, management training, PR and advertising. By providing a robust academic grounding in the subject students can also progress into higher levels of study, including MA / MSc and research degrees, and professional qualifications in teaching, translation, interpreting, communications, law and accounting.
