

*Are you interested in getting involved in research
but don't know where to start?*

Have you got an idea you would like to present at a conference?

Get involved in....

Student Partners in Clinical Education Conference 2019

SPiCE is a conference where medical students at Barts and the London are invited to be the teachers for the day. To do so you must submit an abstract by 2nd December 2018. You do not need to have completed research to submit; you can submit an abstract on any aspect of medicine that interests you. If accepted, you will be invited to give an oral presentation at the SPiCE conference on 12th January 2019. After the conference you will be invited to write up your paper to be published in the SPiCE Journal. To support you in this process we ask you to contact an academic or clinical staff member to be your partner, to help you to prepare the best abstract, presentation and paper.

We look forward to seeing you at the conference.
