EDUCATION/TEACHING

- Main teaching interests: Legislative Drafting (in Common law jurisdictions, Civil law jurisdictions, the EU, and drafting for EU membership/accession/exit); EU Law; Public Law; Comparative Law and

Continental Legal Systems; Research Methods (especially multi-national, and multi-disciplinary comparative legal research)

- Pedagogical approach: Cross-fertilisation between research and education by enhancing the curriculum with latest research outputs, and informing research via research questions arising in teaching and lecturing (connected curriculum)
- Leadership in the pedagogy in legislative drafting internationally
 - I identified the duality of phronetic drafting, determined the skills required, and introduced the first curriculum for legislative drafting (PG/Professional/DL); I established the first clinic in legislative drafting; my multi-layered pedagogy is published in numerous articles, is presented in education and subject conferences and is applied internationally
 - As a President of the International Association for Legislation (an association of 300 professors and practitioners aiming to promote excellence in research and education in legislative studies) I lead on education and training initiatives in the discipline
- Leadership in innovations of the curriculum
 - At the IALS I led the restructuring of the PhD curriculum by introducing a PhD Handbook, establishing a SSLCom, organising peer seminars and external workshops
 - At UCL I led and put to effect the restructuring of the UoL PGLaws programme by strengthening quality and standards over 70 courses via annually updated materials, online revision classes, and VLE pages with videocasts
 - At PGLaws I mentor, supervise and coordinate a faculty of 70 academic convenors and 140 examiners
- Leadership in engagement activity with students and student feedback
 - At PGLaws I conceive, initiate, put to effect and lead UoLWW initiatives by enhancing the student voice via an online SSLCom and written responses to student surveys and feedback; by promoting the student experience via monthly vlogs, Ask Me Anything capability with response within 48 hours, online clinics, frequent webinars addressed to lapsed students, new applicants, and current students; and by mentoring academic convenors and examiners over 70 courses to offer examination skills videos, examiners' reports, and sample scripts
- Leadership in inclusive teaching practices and widening access to PG education in law
 - I led the reform of PGLaws to take account of inclusive teaching practices in DL by adding subtitles to all videos, observing disability friendly website format
 - I enhanced wide access to the programme by adding introductory modules for non-lawyers and extending scholarships to refugees, activists, women, prisoners, and the socially and financially vulnerable
- Leadership in the pedagogy of professional courses
 - At PGLaws I have led the introduction of short courses in PGLaws by offering CPD to individual modules for lawyers wishing to update their knowledge
 - I have sustained engagement with the development of the pedagogy of professional drafting courses by combining a concept based doctrinal analysis with practical application to real examples of legislation; my success is proven by my many training consultancies, by my many pedagogy related publications, and by my election as the President of the International Association for Legislation
- Leadership in collaborative education projects
 - I have led the multi-disciplinary team developing an onboarding template for DL students that is now applied to UoLWW programmes, including PGLaws
 - As a member of the CDE I mentored and monitored the implementation of research projects related to DL in education
- Participation in curriculum review in other institutions
 - I have participated and reviewed the provision of the Mochyla Law Academy in Ukraine, Brunel University (PG), the University of Malta, and the Center for International and Comparative Law at the Robert H McKinley Law School of the University of Indiana.

- I contribute to the curriculum review of other Universities as part of my role as external examiner at the Universities of Westminster, Manchester, and Malta
- I have chaired and participated as a member to a multitude of approval panels within and outside the University of London and UCL
- Leadership in education: indicators and impact
