

Modern slavery and human trafficking statement

Compliance with the Modern Slavery Act 2015
Review of 2019/20

Introduction

Modern slavery is a crime and a violation of fundamental human rights. It takes various forms, such as slavery, servitude, forced and compulsory labour and human trafficking, all of which have in common the deprivation of a person's liberty by another in order to exploit them for personal or commercial gain.

We are committed to improving our practices to combat slavery and human trafficking.

This statement is made pursuant to section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and constitutes our slavery and human trafficking statement for the financial year ending 31 July 2020.

Organisational structure

Queen Mary University of London (Queen Mary) is one of the UK's leading universities with over 25,000 students representing more than 160 nationalities. An ambitious new strategy will see the University increase in size to 50,000 students, based throughout the world, by 2030.

In the academic year 2019-20, there were approximately 4,500 members of staff and a consolidated turnover of £512m.

A member of the Russell Group, we work across the humanities and social sciences, medicine and dentistry, and science and engineering, with inspirational teaching directly informed by our research. In the most recent national assessment of the quality of research, we were placed fifth in the UK amongst multi-faculty universities for the proportion of research outputs that were world-leading or internationally excellent. (Research Excellence Framework 2014).

We have London based campuses at Mile End, Whitechapel, Charterhouse Square, West Smithfield and Lincoln's Inn Fields. Internationally we have significant operations across Paris, Malta and in three locations in China, teaching over 5,000 students.

Queen Mary has a long, proud and distinctive history built on four historic institutions stretching back to 1785 and beyond. Our founding institutions are the London Hospital Medical College, St Bartholomew's Medical College, Westfield College and Queen Mary College. The vision of our founders, for each institution, was to provide 'hope and opportunity' for the less privileged population in East London and the suburbs of the City of London. These four, historic institutions now make up Queen Mary, a global University committed to improving lives locally, nationally and internationally.

Our supply chains

Queen Mary's supply chains are managed via 4 main categories, which are:

Categories	Includes:
Estates & Facilities	Projects & maintenance
Professional Services & Facilities management	Human resources, finance, marketing, and facilities.
IT	Projects and service delivery
Scientific & Laboratory	Scientific and Laboratory equipment and consumables

We have carried out analysis using the Sustainable Procurement Prioritisation tool designed by DEFRA (Department for Environmental Food and Rural Affairs), which provides outputs based on: Influence, scope and risk.

From a social perspective the tool considered:

- Human Rights / Working Conditions
- Education and Skills Training
- Local Employment and Apprenticeships
- Local Community Engagement
- Diversity and Inclusion
- Small and medium sized enterprise support

The top 5 areas of focus were:

Our policies on slavery and human trafficking

We are committed to ensuring that there is no modern slavery or human trafficking in our supply chains or in any part of our business.

Work undertaken

We ensure that slavery and human trafficking are not taking place within Queen Mary or our supply chains as follows.

- All of Queen Mary's directly-employed staff are on standardised terms and conditions, which include an explicit commitment to pay the London living wage as a minimum.
- All agencies who supply Queen Mary with staff are contractually bound to pay the London living wage and provide verification of the identity and right to work for their staff. All significant service/goods contracts are overseen by Queen Mary's Procurement Team and include a commitment to, and evidence of, compliance with the Modern Slavery Act within the tender and award process.

- Our due diligence processes and legal agreements for academic partnerships include a commitment to comply with the Modern Slavery Act. We have confirmed that our partners in China, including our Chinese subsidiary, are required to comply with Chinese law which prohibits human trafficking and forced labour.
- Queen Mary, via the London Universities Purchasing Consortia, has affiliated with Electronics Watch, which is an independent monitoring organisation that helps public sector buyers' work together to protect labour rights and improve working conditions for workers in their global electronics supply chains, more effectively and less expensively than any single public sector buyer could accomplish on its own.
- A web resource has been developed to provide guidance for staff on the implications of the Act, their responsibilities in regard to it, and the routes to escalate concerns or issues they may have about a situation or supplier. Additionally training has been promoted to all staff which includes:

- Queen Mary has in place a whistleblowing policy, protects whistleblowers and provides a channel to report unethical conduct.

Actions taken to assist with tackling Modern Slavery through tenders

- Additional requirement included for suppliers to declare affiliations to professional bodies, which indicates the willingness of the supplier to adhere to the Modern Slavery Act.
- Declaration by suppliers to confirm compliance to the Act, and requested to send a copy of the statement / policy
- Statement added to inform suppliers that Queen Mary reserve the right to carry out site visits or interview workers, if there are concerns of non-compliance
- Standard terms and conditions reviewed and now include Modern Slavery Clauses

Actions taken to assist with tackling Modern Slavery with existing contracts

- Identified high impact suppliers and sent questionnaires for completion to assist with the better understanding of the supply chain.
- Standard terms and conditions reviewed and now include Modern Slavery Clauses
- Formed a sustainable procurement group, chaired by the Head of Procurement to identify, assess and drive sustainability initiatives.

Our plan for the future

Queen Mary reaffirms its commitment to better understanding its supply chains and working towards greater transparency and responsibility towards people working on them.

A few of the actions are detailed below:

- Continue to review contracts to ensure modern slavery clauses are included and that relevant due - diligence is in place to minimise the risk of modern slavery.
- Queen Mary will continue to encourage and support suppliers to ensure their supply chain has measures in place.
- Queen Mary is currently working towards achieving ISO14001
- We will embed social impacts into relevant tenders.
- Procurement has reviewed the existing performance using the sustainability leadership scorecard (23/32) and has a clear and committed ambition to achieve 30/32 by 31 July 2022.
- We will continue to proactively work within our Higher Education Procurement networks and purchasing consortium to ensure that we share and learn from best practice.

Statement of compliance

As a result of the work completed we can confirm that to the best of our knowledge we are compliant with our responsibilities under the Act. We will continue to review our approach in relation to the Act and ensure that best practice is incorporated into our policies, procedures and contractual arrangements.

Professor Colin Bailey

President and Principal

Date: 22 January 2021