The Year Abroad
What is the Year Abroad?

• Third year of any language degree and compulsory for all students with French, German, Russian, Portuguese, Catalan and/or Hispanic Studies in their degree title

• Minimum of 6 months studying and/or working abroad (a longer YA is encouraged, up to 15 months) in countries where languages in your degree title are spoken

• Worth 120 credits and you will have to complete an assessment whilst you are abroad (accounts for 9.09% of your degree)
Benefits of the Year Abroad

Better employment prospects

Compared to graduates without the Year Abroad, graduates with the Year Abroad experience are:

- less likely to experience a period of unemployment
- more likely to be involved in higher-status employment sector
- have much higher than average income
Year Abroad and its benefits

In September 2014, The Erasmus Impact Study: Effects of mobility on the skills and employability of students and the internationalisation of higher education institutions found that internationally mobile students are half as likely to experience long-term unemployment compared with those who have not studied or trained abroad and that, five years after graduation, their unemployment rate is 23% lower.
Research shows that the Year Abroad is highly valued by employers.
Year Abroad and its benefits

Personal and linguistic benefits

The Year Abroad helps you:
• gain near native fluency in the language
• better understand the culture, history, philosophy, politics of the countries you’ll spend time in
• develop cultural awareness, confidence, independence, adaptability, problem-solving and resilience
• build a network of contacts and make friends for life
Year Abroad and its benefits

Personal and linguistic benefits

In a recent survey conducted by ThirdYearAbroad.com, 86% of 600 interviewed graduates said that the Year Abroad was the most valuable part of their degree course.
Current Year Abroad options

• Study placement at a university under the European exchange programme (Erasmus+) or independently

• Work placement: Teaching English as a foreign language assistant (British Council)

• Work placement within Europe (Erasmus+) and beyond (Canada, Latin America)
Flexibility on your Year Abroad

- You can study for a full year at one institution
- You can work for a full year for one employer
- You can split your year abroad by:
  - country
  - placement type (study or work* placement) * not BCELA

Studying two languages?
We recommend that you spend more time in the country where your weakest language is spoken.

Studying German, Spanish, Portuguese, Catalan or Russian at introductory level? We recommend a full year abroad for ab initio students. You’ll have to spend at least 3 months in a country where your ab initio language is spoken.

Study placements

• Study at one of our Erasmus+ partner institutions.

• We currently have Erasmus+ agreements with universities in Belgium, France, Germany, Latvia, Portugal and Spain.

• Erasmus+ grants are currently available to support your studies.

NB: Funding (either through Erasmus+ or the UK government) has been guaranteed until the academic year 2019/20. It is hoped that the UK will remain part of the Erasmus+ programme until the end of 2020/21, however, this is not confirmed yet at this stage, so there might not be Erasmus+ funding after 2020.

Work placements

- Employability skills and relevant work experience are seen as increasingly critical by employers, and are among the most significant factors considered when recruiting graduates.

- Great way of gaining valuable work experience in an international setting whilst improving your language skills.

- Earn a salary in addition to an Erasmus+ grant if your work placement is in the EU.
The Institut Ramon Llull offers an academic internship programme to Catalan Studies students from the United Kingdom and Ireland in the University Network of Catalan Studies Abroad. The aim of the internship programme is to enable the students to supplement their academic education and to acquire skills that will enable them to carry out their professional activities in their future jobs within a Catalan-speaking setting.

The internships offered by the Institut Ramon Llull are configured as academic activities that are integrated into the universities’ curricula. As such, they will have academic recognition consistent with the established rules and procedures of each university. The priority areas are translation, copywriting and copy-editing; community management, social media; education; and cultural and tourism management.
